

Sir,

As a teacher may I draw your attention to the following world league tables concerning the education of our children:

Reading skills 17th
Math skills 24th
Science skills 14th

Exam success rate 22nd.

Child well-being 21st.

Impressive, isn't it?

Gordon Brown said that British education would be 'a beacon to the world'!

In fact since the present government came to power British education has consistently slid down the world league tables. As our children are our finest resource, this is deeply worrying. I hope you will research and publish an article on the subject. A serious article.

G. Tedworthy, Gloucester.