

The Business, Innovation and Skills Committee is investigating the sale of Cadbury and are against the loss of Britain's industrial heritage. A little late, perhaps.

Here are some of the famous names that were once-upon-a-time British. They are no longer so. Read below what some of our leaders say on the subject.

		Lotus
		London Electricity
		Manchester United and many other teams
		Mini cars
		Midland Bank
		Oxo
		O2
		P & O
		Rover
		Racal Electronics
		Reckitt & Colman
		Rowntree
		Ritz
		Smith & Nephew
		Savoy
		Shorts Missiles
		Sun
		Tetleys Bitter
		Times
		Yorkshire Bank
		Vauxhall
		Rolls Royce
		Rugby Cement
		Worcestershire Sauce
		Weetabix
Abbey National
Alliance & Leicester
Allied Domecq
Aston Martin
Airbus
Asda
Bodyshop
Boots
BOC
BAA
BPB
Bentley
British Steel
Chelsea
Claridges
Connaught
Berkeley
Cussons
Clydesdale Bank
Exel
Fortnum & Mason
Hamleys
Harrods
Harry Ramsden
HP Sauce
Hotpoint
Evening Standard	Jaguar	Terry's
		Cadbury's
		Land Rover

'The City is to all intents and purposes foreign owned - and it's all the better for it.' UK Trade & Investment. (A government agency.)

"It's an old concept, that British businesses have to be British owned."
The Institute of Directors.

